It consists of one line over which little, dilapidated cars, each drawn which little, diaphdated cars, each drawn by three Mongolian ponies, run from the railroad station in the Japanese zone to the walls of Mukden. Every few min-utes a car bulging with Chinese, whose long pipes obstruct the alsle, plunges down the crowded thoroughfare, while on the front platform the driver clangs

An inquisitive foreigner wondered where the cars came from. He instituted an investigation and learned that they are the same cars which about thirty years ago were used on the cross-town lines in New York city. Discarded by New York city, the cars were sold for use in Tokio. Later, when Tokio adopted the electric system, they were sold to a firm in Mukden.
